

LIKENS CARMANIA TO GREAT EASTERN

30-Year-Old Arrival Says Liner
Is Not So Different From
Ship of 1862.

FIRST TRIP IN NINE DAYS

Notables Aboard, Including Newspaper Man, Descendant of Charles Darwin.

W. C. Bramwell, eighty, arrived here yesterday on the Cunard Line steamship Carmania, completing his twenty-first transatlantic voyage of a span of years in which ocean shipping has been transformed from sidewheelers and sailing vessels to the mighty liners of today. His first trip to the United States from his home in England was made on the Great Eastern in 1862. According to Bramwell, his ocean trip then was hardly surpassed by the traveling conditions to-day, despite the numerous inventions designed to make ocean voyages swift and safe.

Mr. Bramwell said that trip began May 16, 1862, and took only nine days. "That is as fast as many of the big liners make the trip to-day," he said. "However, I am going back home on the Aquitania and will then see how the Cunard Line's best ship compares with the old Great Eastern." Mr. Bramwell has lived in the United States forty-one years and received the Franklin Institute medal for an invention which dealt with the manufacture of wool from the raw product. He is here to visit the widow of his son, R. E. Bramwell, who lives in New Brunswick, N. J., and will return soon to his home at St. Margaret on Thames.

Amateur Golfers Arrive.

Eight members of the British amateur golf team arrived on the Carmania. Four are English and four Scotch. Accompanying the players was Bernard Darwin, grandson of Charles Darwin. Darwin, a newspaper man, accompanies the golf team here in an advisory capacity. The team will compete in the United States amateur championships on the Brookline course near Boston. They were met by members of the United States Golf Association and went to the Biltmore.

Col. A. S. Sutherland-Harris, J. P., Commissioner of Income Tax for London and Sussex, arrived aboard the Carmania for his first visit to this country. The ship brought among others of the 113 first-class passengers from Liverpool and Quetown Norman Hunter of Swan, Hunter & Co., builders of the Mauretania, who came with his wife for a short visit; E. W. Washburn of the National Research Council, Washington; Sestyn Davies, noted Welsh tenor, and a number of linen manufacturers from Ireland. The passengers aboard the Carmania did not know of the trouble aboard the Adriatic until they reached New York. Capt. E. W. Melsom, in command, had been in communication with Capt. David of the Adriatic, but did not put about to aid the Adriatic, as Capt. David advised by wireless no assistance was needed. The Carmania went to dock at the foot of West Fourteenth street.

Women's Knees to Cost $5 Each at Far Rockaway

THE bathing beach at Far Rockaway is to become militantly moral to-day. There's to be no more winking at women's bare knees. Every pair is to be veiled with a summons, and that summons is to cost $10. Hitherto bare knees have drawn upon their owners merely the censorious eye of the police—with, possibly, a warning that those silk stockings must be rolled up all the way. But to-day it's to be different.

Capt. Thomas Myers says he will carry out his threat to issue a summons for every pair of feminine knees he sees taking the air.

they reached New York. Capt. E. W. Melsom, in command, had been in communication with Capt. David of the Adriatic, but did not put about to aid the Adriatic, as Capt. David advised by wireless no assistance was needed. The Carmania went to dock at the foot of West Fourteenth street.

Students Return.

The steamship President Monroe of the United States Lines arrived yesterday from London via Cherbourg with 108 cabin passengers, including many college students. Some of these had worked their way across the Atlantic. One, Oscar Riesa of 410 North Arsenal avenue, Indianapolis, was unable to get his luggage and bicycle off the ship when she stopped at Cherbourg for a few minutes and had to postpone for a year his bicycle trip through the Continent. He will tour New England, however, before returning to college.

Among passengers on board was one of the few women ministers, Eva Ryerson Ludgate of 7 Baston Terrace, Roslyn, Mass. She returned from a visit to principal cities of Europe under the auspices of the Federated Council of Churches. She is a Congregational minister. Immigration officials are investigating the case of little Mourreen Geoghegan, brought here on the ship from Ireland by Mr. and Mrs. E. France of Seattle. Complete legal adoption has not been arranged and the immigration officers permitted the child to leave the ship in the custody of Mrs. France pending investigation.

GIRL DRIVER SMASHES HASTINGS LANDMARKS

Doors on Old Revolutionary Forge Hit by Motor.

One of the chief attractions of Hastings, N. Y., was the pair of doors on the old Neutral Forge, where, during the Revolutionary war, British, Hessian and American troops were accustomed to have their horses shod. Antiquarians and historical societies placed great value upon those doors and the tourists of Hastings were wont to tell excellent stories about them.

The forge is now a garage. Miss Marion Hecht of Manhattan in a motor car was trying to enter the garage yesterday and in doing so reduced the doors to kindling. It was all an accident, of course, but Hastings mourns its favorite doors.

Women's FALL FROCKS

In this assembly of new modes the dominant note is distinctiveness, regardless of whether the model is an exact copy of the latest importation from an exclusive Parisian house or the masterly creation of an American designer.

Each and every one reflects the new fashion note, that of elaboration, of studied and minutely thought out beauty, and rarely, if ever, have the designers so exerted themselves toward complete richness of design, luxuriousness of fabric, and the artful use of colorful embroidery and fur.

Natural Muskrat Coats—40 ins.; dark skins with border... $135

WRAPS—Imports and models designed by the leading American style creators for Women.

Foremost, perhaps, is the sumptuous new reversible wraps developed in Tortina cloth and rich brown caracul or in a velvety taupe duvetyne and mole. (The Tortina cloth model, as illustrated, is $350.)

Daytime wraps are designed along loose wrappy lines; many in such new materials as marcova and tarquina, and are luxuriously combined with fox, wolf, mole and other favored furs.

Afternoon and evening wraps?—never before has the mode been so brilliantly sophisticated, calling to its aid such beautiful fabrics as colorful chiffon tinsel brocade, silver cloth and silk velvet, and using fur with lavish beauty.

Every new tendency—all the art of Paris and the genius of America is reflected in this wide and versatile collection.
